Description

The renovation involved the conversion of an existing retirement home into 3 unique residences. Close liaison was required by GHA with both English Heritage and High Peak Planners to obtain permission to rebuild a section of the front façade. This was undertaken to remove an unsightly bulge and steel-plate restraint system which had been introduced some years previously. Internally original timber members and framing were retained wherever possible. This required careful consideration of structural strengthening required, and careful detailing to minimise the impact of such. Externally a sub-ground car park was constructed in order to minimise the impact on the surrounding landscape
